

Don't be Blinded by the Sun: Social Media in the Public Sector

2018 IPMA-HR International Training Conference & Expo

Presented by Traci Park and Kelly Trainer

The impact of social media in the public workplace continues to raise questions more rapidly than courts can provide answers. As one question is answered, new legal issues and forms of social media emerge to raise new questions. In this cutting-edge session you'll learn about the most current developments related to social media in the public workplace from Traci Park and Kelly Trainer, two employment attorneys experienced in managing social media issues in the public sector. Topics will include cyber-vetting of employees, recent litigation and legislation related to social media at work, social media and workplace investigations and discipline, and recent free speech and privacy cases.
