

HR in Crisis: Learning from the Headlines

CALPELRA 41st Annual Training Conference Monterey, CA

Human resources happens in the news – not just at work. Increasingly employment issues are being scrutinized by the media. Managers and employees alike follow these stories, and human resources professionals need to be prepared to respond. In this session you'll learn about current human resources issues making headlines, including the San Bernardino, UCLA, and Orlando shootings and the impact such an event has on the workplace; the possibility of legalized marijuana in California and how to address the workplace impacts should it happen; the human resources response to employee embezzlement; and what every HR professional should know about transgender inclusion in the workplace.
