

Social Media in the Public Workplace: Friend…Follow…Fire?

IEPMA-HR Training Forum
Rancho Cucamonga

The impact of social media in the public workplace continues to raise questions more rapidly than courts can provide answers. As one question is answered, new legal issues and forms of social media emerge to raise new questions. This cutting-edge session will cover the most current developments related to social media in the public workplace, including cyber-vetting of employees, recent litigation and legislation related to social media at work, appropriate policy language regarding employee use of social media, and appropriate (and inappropriate) limitations on employee use of social media.
