

What Data on the Use of Force, Jury Verdicts, and the Pandemic Can Tell Us About Police Litigation in 2020

Please join jury trial consultant David Cannon, Ph.D. of Trial Innovations and Nathan A. Oyster, Esq. of Burke, Williams & Sorensen, LLP for a discussion of issues impacting Police Litigation in 2020. During this MCLE session, we will discuss the key questions that provide information about how jurors will rule on law enforcement cases, data on officer-involved shootings, a case study of public opinion is split over a recent high-profile police shooting, how the jury pool will differ during the pandemic, and an evaluation of jury verdict growth in law enforcement litigation.

A recording of their September 29, 2020 session on Current Juror Views on Law Enforcement Cases can be found here.

Register for this Zoom meeting here.

RELATED PRACTICES

Law Enforcement Defense
Public Law

RELATED PEOPLE

Nathan A. Oyster