November 18, 2021
11:00-12:00

In this session a workplace investigator and an employment litigator team up to discuss what happens when your workplace investigation ends up in litigation. Among other things, you'll learn about vetting the investigator, preparing an appropriate retainer, and best practices for establishing attorney-client privilege and work product protections. The presenters will also discuss circumstances in which investigations are at issue and discoverable, and how courts evaluate the good faith standard.
