

Court of Appeal Supports Districts' Right to Discipline Students, and Highlights Due Process Requirements and Review Standards for Involuntary Transfers

Burke Education Law Alert

In a ruling that supports a school district's right to discipline students, a California Court of Appeal recently ruled that a school district need not exhaust all other means of correction before a student can be involuntarily transferred to a continuation school.

Download

RELATED PRACTICES

Education Law

© 2025 Burke, Williams & Sorensen, LLP. All rights reserved.